In making out my report for the year ending Feb. 15, 1902, I wish to say something in regard to keeping the school houses in repair. I think there is but one school house in town where school could be kept in cold weather unless scholars wore overcoats and jackets to keep them warm. Now, should not the people of Holderness take some pride in keeping the town buildings in good repair? It would raise each man's tax but a little to put them all in good shape and then it would be easy to keep them so. We have a great many summer guests, and there is not a man in town but what would rather point out a good, clean looking building and say "That is one of our school houses," than show them one that had not seen paint for ten years, with the clapboards started off at each end so that the hornets can get in anywhere and build nests. It certainly shows a lack of interest in the town's property. I would like to see every one repaired and painted and a good foundation pointed up with cement. It would make a great difference in the warmth of the buildings and make it possible to run the schools in the winter months with some degree of comfort. But some seem to think anything is all right for a school house; "they are as good as they were when they went to school 30 years ago, and they are good enough now." But we live in the age of progression. Give your children all the comforts and advantages you can in their school life, for it is the most important of anything you can do for them and may determine their future career.

Money was raised to repair and paint the Beede, Bridge and Page school houses. As the Beede is not used, all we did was shingle it. More money was needed at the Bridge than was raised. We have paint to cover it one more coat outside that was left from last spring, but did not have money to have it done. Arthur Johnson paid for moving the shed, and it was quite an improvement in the looks of the place, but it is only a commencement of what ought to be done. There are scores of people pass there every day in summer, and if the house had blinds it would add to the looks of it a great deal, and to the comfort of the scholars in warm weather.

Again, we lacked money in repairing the Page school house and had to use a portion of the five per cent. to make the house only comfortable. A shed was needed and we got a piece of land of Carrie Moulton and put enough on the end of the school nouse to make a good shed and entry, giving a larger school room, but it needs painting outside. The Carr school house should be painted inside and out. New desks would be a great addition.

Now, I take the liberty to make these suggestions and hope they will be received as given, for the interest of our town. I trust, after careful consideration, you will give the school board your hearty support in these needed improvements.

Respectfully,

JOHN H. PERKINS.

To the citizens of Holderness:

In submitting this report I am pleased to say that the schools have been under the instruction of the best teachers we could obtain and no pains have been spared to make every school in town a success. It is impossible to ascertain how the different candidates for teachers will apply themselves to the different schools until a trial has been given. The best results are brought about by the support of the parents, and a day spent in visiting school proves to the teacher as well as the scholars that your interests are mutual. The teacher notes your interest in the school and the scholars are inspired and awakened more keenly to their work.

The average attendance is far better than last year, but not nearly as large as it should be. The greater number of cases of irregular attendance are caused by imperative reasons, but there are altogether too large a number for trivial reasons. In order to do good work, it is absolutely necessary that pupils should be interested, and absence from school is a positive hindrance to the accomplishment of thorough work as it detracts from the necessary interest. I regret to say that too often the absences are caused by the indifference of those who have the children in charge. Illness has affected the attendance in some schools more than others, as is liable to occur in any year. East Holderness has been especially unfortunate.

Although the fall term of 1901 is not included in this year's work, I will say, briefly, we decided to try a new experiment and if possible, without increasing expenditures, unite three districts and form a graded school at the Bridge. The parents generally grasped the situation and co-operated with the Board to give the children the increased advantages offered them. The main benefits of this scheme are economy in expenses and multiplication of educational privileges. This was a success, but it was an experiment, and we can see now where improvement could be made. If we could unite these district and maintain two schools at the Bridge, graded as they were this fall, we could certainly obtain good results. All we need to accomplish this is a suitable room. It seems to me if the matter was presented to the parents of Prescott and Cox scholars they would, on purely business principles, prefer to have their children carried to a graded school, rather than continue the present arrangement. Surely, a child can ride three miles easier than he can walk half the distance. Comfortable transportation would nearly double the school advantages of these pupils.

I have visited six different schools in our town this year, and let me say for the encouragement of parents, we have some good scholars. I believe I could pick out from these schools, scholars who would pass as good an examination in the common school studies as any of the same age found elsewhere. This shows we have had some good teachers. Now, if you are curious to know who these good scholars are, go in to the schools after they open in the spring and see if they are your boys or girls.

WINNIE WILLOUGHBY.
